Ms. Hernandez & Ms. Marisol

Pre-K 259 had such an amazing time exploring Transportation. We took neighborhood walks, identified the many different types of transportations we could use for different reasons and the importance of staying safe when using them. The children had the opportunity to discuss their feelings and shared so many great ideas through pretend play and in art.

Welcome to our next unit of study: Light. In this unit, children move from exploring various modes and aspects of transportation to inquiring and thinking critically about light, darkness and shadows. There will be a few important questions we will explore and discuss during the Light unit of study. These questions are:

- What kinds of lights are around us?
- What is darkness?
- How does light help us?
- What are shadows?

You can play a very important role in your child's learning and development. Here is a checklist with some ways you can help to support our units of study at home.

- Read or tell simple stories and ask your child to tell what happens in the beginning, middle, and end.
- Help your child recognize signs, symbols, and logos around your neighborhood.
- Talk with your child about what makes your family and community special
- Go on a "letter hunt" to find the letters of your name around your home.
